

Erik de Graaf (short CV)

Erik de Graaf is professor of the Department of Development and Planning at Aalborg University in Denmark. He was responsible for the development and running of the Basic Didactic Qualification Program at Delft University of Technology from 2002-2011. He was chair of the Active Learning Initiative in Engineering Education at Aalborg, editor of the European Journal of Engineering Education and co-editor of IIDEA, the International Institute of Capacity Development in Engineering Education.